

Rebel

*You see me as the newest one amongst the rest,
Yet you haven't given me a chance, or gave me a test.
If you see me as a rookie than you must have been mistaken,
Because you haven't had the time to hear the words that I be making.
You see me as a person, or you see me as a friend,
Yet when it comes to all this rapping you don't know where to begin.
You see yourself superior and yet you're just inferior.
Just because you can continue, doesn't mean that I can't beat you.
You see I've been around the block, I've learned a couple tricks,
Yet you yourself are pretty good and that I'll admit.
If you ever need some practice, then you'd better take some lessons,
And I must confess, with all due respect, this rapping was a blessing.*