

My Family

*The eyes that watched me grow so fast,
The people that wished old times would last,
That voices that joked, played, and laughed,
Gave me the knowledge of the past.*

*They knew me well when I was born,
The love they gave remained un-torn,
My heart, untouched, cannot be scorn,
And with this love I was reborn.*

*Of all the people I was blessed,
I love the life the Lord gave best,
The one thing I love and regret,
Is to see the lives of those at rest.*

*They gave me courage, strength and might,
They helped me not to fear the night,
They showed me dreams of greater heights,
They said be blessed and see the light.*

*Throughout my life I say I'm glad,
Through all the good and all the bad,
The final words I say at last,*

I'll never trade the life I have.
